CAFR Predecessor

The National Committee on Municipal Accounting (NCMA) was formed in 1934 by the Government Financial Officers Association<sup>[3]</sup> to create accounting standards. As a result of its work, the 'Principles of Municipal Accounting', the predecessor to the CAFR, was created. The successor to the NCMA, the National Council on Governmental Accounting (NCGA), issued 'Governmental Accounting, Auditing and Financial Reporting', which is the basis of the format for the current standard. This document, known as the "Blue Book", and its successors documented the CAFR accounting structure and provided standardization and example documents. By 1946, the various levels of government—federal, state, local and municipal—each began producing a CAFR to catalog an accurate picture of institutional funds, enterprise or financial holdings, assets and total investment incomes for those government and nongovernmental entities using the report. This measure is above and beyond the budget process and replaced what was regularly an "off-the-books" practice called the "general fixed-asset account group". General Purpose government "budget" reports did not reflect accounting of this financial data, only reporting on the budget or "rainy day" funds or pension fund investments. By the 1970s, the CAFR became the nationwide paradigm for local government accounting.<sup>[4]</sup>

The Bretton Woods Conference, formally known as the United Nations Monetary and Financial Conference, was the gathering of 730 delegates from all 44 Allied nations at the Mount Washington Hotel, situated in Bretton Woods, New Hampshire, United States, to regulate the international monetary and financial order after the conclusion of World War II.<sup>[1]</sup>

The conference was held from July 1–22, 1944. Agreements were signed that, after legislative ratification by member governments, established the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD) and the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS OF ESF

Are essentially most NY Fed member bank derivative positions of ESF?

Do US narcotics trafficking work through the ESF

Does ESF have legal ownership of assets of SSP and other covert operation?

2016 ESF Financial Report

The role of transparency –

Talk about the ESF – get into the vernacular – the mother of all slush funds

Con-Con – commitment to permanent secrecy

Enforce the Constitution – commitment to transparency

Action – place based finances
