INTRODUCTION

Welcome to The Solari Report.

Today is Friday, June 16th in Australia – remember my favorite saying. The world can't end today, its already tomorrow in Australia.

I am Catherine Austin Fitts and I am delighted that you could join me this evening.

EVENTS –

Speaking to you from Sydney, Australia

Great lunch at the Fish Café in Sydney today

Sydney- June 16 - Lunch with Catherine Austin Fitts and Jason Bawden-Smith

THEME TONIGHT: The Age of Consequences

Thanks to Subscriber for sending great quote:

“The era of procrastination, of half-measures, of soothing and baffling expedients, of delays is coming to its close. In its place we are entering a period of consequences.” ~Sir Winston S. Churchill

All around you can feel the end of the debt growth model as more competitors in politics and business fight for shrinking cash flows and margins in Global 2.0 and race for turf in Global 3.0 – often before the cash flows can cover expenses - and the cost of the corruption and war models gets increasingly expensive

Global Slowdown

APRIL – IMF falling productivity – Last year 2nd Quarter Wrap Up

The head of the International Monetary Fund has issued a stark warning that living standards will fall around the world unless governments take urgent action to increase productivity by investing in education, cutting red tape and incentivising research and development.

Christine Lagarde used a speech in Washington to tell policymakers they could not simply wait for innovation to drive up productivity growth and help living standards recover from the legacy of the global financial crisis. She highlighted a poor global record on productivity growth in recent years and said IMF analysis suggested GDP in advanced economies would be about 5% higher today if the pre-crisis trend had continued for total factor productivity growth – a broad measure of what goes into production, such as research spending.

Shadowstats:

With Increasingly Adverse Economic Data, FOMC Hiked the Fed Funds Rate

- May 2017 Nominal Retail Sales Fell by 0.3% (-0.3%), Despite a Gimmicked Monthly Sales Boost of 0.2% from Seasonal-Factor Distortions
- Headline Real May Retail Sales Sank by 0.13% (-0.13%), Despite a CPI Contraction of 0.13% (-0.13%)
- Recession Signal Intensified Sharply
- First-Quarter Real Average Weekly Earnings Held in Annual Decline, Along with Back-to-Back Quarterly Contractions; Despite No Growth in May, Weak Inflation Boosted Second-Quarter Real Earnings Trend
- Headline CPI-U Inflation Declined by 0.13% (-0.13%) in May 2017, Pulling Annual CPI-U Inflation Lower to 1.87% (Was 2.20%), with CPI-W at 1.78% (Was 2.14%) and

ShadowStats at 9.6% (was 10.0%)

- May 2017 Annual Final-Demand PPI at 2.36%, Minimally Backed Off a 62-Month High of 2.45% in April
- Annual PPI Inflation Boosted by Poor-Quality Theoretical Constructs, Such as Declining Gasoline Prices Spiking Services Inflation

Good piece in Financial Time summarizing the issue:

Core inflation is likely to end this year close to 1 per cent, far below the Federal Reserve's target of 2 per cent.

record high levels of indebtedness will exert greater downward pressure on economic growth.

. Prices across many of the largest components of core inflation are in clear and, in several cases, accelerating downtrends.

These downward price pressures are partly the result of structural disinflationary pressures (such as high debt levels), but they are also spurred by sector specific developments including, in the case of education, the unaffordability of college tuition and big stresses in the student lending market. Within the car industry, excess inventories and intensifying credit stresses are exerting downward pressure.

However, the most important sector-specific development is that the rate of increase in the cost of shelter — or rent — has turned down. Since the credit crisis, core inflation has only ever approached 2 per cent because the cost of shelter has been rising quickly. But over the past six months shelter price inflation has decelerated sharply. This is likely to continue.

Low interest rates – keep pushing up real estate, tech stocks – balance sheet inflation in the midst of deflation.

A critically important disinflationary dynamic is paltry wage growth. Nominal wage growth has turned down this year, and real wage growth has collapsed from 2 per cent in July 2016 to 0.3 per cent in April. It is not hard to see why consumer spending growth is weak.

Two other structural dynamics are keeping wages depressed: woefully low productivity growth and globalisation.

Other significant disinflationary forces include the lagged effect on prices of last year's dollar appreciation and the decline in commodity prices being driven, in large part, by the tightening of economic policy in China.

The development that could push inflation higher in the near term would be the timely delivery of a big fiscal stimulus in the US. But the likelihood of this happening is diminishing by the day — given whatever stimulus materialises will be the product of an increasingly acrimonious and chaotic US political process.

WITCHHUNT DESTROYING FISCAL STIMULUS- is that the goal?

AGE OF CONSEQUENCE -

Establishment doing Double Downs instead of change.

EUROPE:

May assembling a new government

Why did the election fail to hold a majority for conservatives? More control, less for people

May calling for Internet controls; Merkel calling for Internet Regulation (some say taxation) – is this to replace the climate change/Paris Accord tax? - 5G rolling out = serious push for more invasive control – has to be partly to protect tax flow.

Brits and EU – where will Euro trading go? London or Paris? Highly likely to stay in London. Paris not set up to replace London as a financial center. But the debates like this creates uncertainty for financial system – just like the Qatar dust up we discuss with Saker

ASIA

Slow down in China, certainly read about it in Australia – brouhaha over climate change tax in Australia. Did Trump's leadership contribute to the trance wearing off

Consequences – when people begin to price out the costs and benefits many of the climate change proposals fall down

USA

Budget off front page – Mattis hits skepticism in testimony Important discussion is not happening – I have only heard from President and some of his team. How to turn negative return on investment from negative to positive.

Problem – throwing money at DOD and Arms deals with Saudis and Qatar don't make for greater productivity. Going the wrong way.

LMT - $231 per share on October 31 when Trump Trade started. Today is $280

Mnuchin - $ runs out in early September – don't make it to next budget – October 1/

Russian Fabrication getting both more outlandish.

Fired FBI Comey Testimony last week – no there there.
Comey's refusal to say Trump was not under investigation and then leak trick achieved the Special prosecutor on a trick, More Proof Comey should have been fired – whether testimony was true or fraudulent

Book deal – IMO I expect a clear bribe – disgusting, like Obama and many others

Result – even Chris Matthews threw in the towel – no there there on the Russia story

Sessions – testimony came off well – but should never have let Mueller happen – Scaredy Cat as AG is bad look. More makes US look like a joke.

What happens?

Double Down on State Ag's

Washington Post: Mueller leaking Obstruction of Justice investigation

But Comey and Mueller are friends – now Mueller is disqualified.

Rumours that Comey has an immunity deal. Absolutely outrageous if true.

SOP – lived with them trying to do it to me.

Very little change of impeachment – instead designed to stop MAGA agenda.

Part of politics – shooting this week of Majority Whip Steve

Scalise

Open source Seth Rich investigation and lawsuit – putting Democrats in real danger – investigation too close - would not surprise me if the people who paid for the bullets that killed Seth Rich paid for the bullets that shot up the Republican baseball team this week (shut down – keep lid on investigation, impeach –we are going into physical civil war between factions – forces behind Trump are better at these ops if they have to be)

Congressional Baseball shooting

Mind control op or frustrated citizen consuming enormous amounts of entrainment and subliminal programming`? (50-50)

With Mueller in place and threats to Republican legislators in happening are the conditions being created to try to get to an impeachment without any evidence supporting such an effort?

Majority Whip Steve Scalise – May 25 posted video about legislation to address human trafficking = co-sponsor was another Congressman at the park that day.

Threats behind the scene? My guess is yes.

Danger – civil war between factions increasingly violent to lives and stock prices

Booze Allen – stock down 13% this week on 8k – subsidiary under DOJ investigation for leaks. Booze was Snowden employer.

An influential conservative bloc of Republican lawmakers on Thursday said it opposed renewal of an internet surveillance law unless major changes were made in how the U.S. government collects and uses American data, reflecting disagreement within the majority party.

MORAL OF THE STORY – will leaking have consequences too?

The Putin interviews ---

Putin can meet with everyone but Trump - Putin Interviews with Megan Kelly and Oliver Stone – Point made by Putin US Interference with Election globally

Oliver Stone – Israeli interference in US elections much more serious – Colbert cuts out of posted interview

BRAVO for Oliver Stone

IMO Israeli interference is a serious threat to our national security and political process. to try to cut the Israelis out.

US interference in Democracy around the world is a serious threat to democracy globally

Delete Bernie from my list

Bernie Sanders –questioning Deputy OMB

From the Hill:

Pres. Trump has nominated Russell Vought to be the deputy director of the White House Office of Management and Budget. Ordinarily, such a nomination would not generate controversy.

Mr. Vought is a veteran of Washington and seems fully able to participate in the numbers-crunching responsibilities of the OMB.

But Sen. Bernie Sanders (I., VT) believes that Mr. Vought is not fit for the job. In fact, Sanders thinks Mr. Vought is unfit for any job in the federal government requiring senate confirmation. Why does Sanders think that? Because Mr. Vought is a devout Christian.

MORAL OF THE STORY – Unlikely has to do with overthrowing Constitutional and legal commitment to separation of Church and State....BERNIE HAS BIG CONTROL FILE – LOGICAL EXPLANATION FOR HIS BEHAVIOR THROWING THE CAMPAIGN TO CLINTON

Disturbing in terms of who is pushing this. Was the goal to just veto Vought by any means necessary or is a push against Christianity on the march?– stretched Islamophobic to inimations of anti-semetic. This is akin to my choice of one voting system targeted as many as 39 states and included incursions into voter databases and software systems. According to Bloomberg, the U.S. was so deeply concerned about the scope and sophistication of these Russian cyberattacks that it took the “unprecedented” step of calling Moscow to complain.

Goal here is to get to Democrat AG’s where it is easier to falsify and frame.

Washington Post – special prosecutor investigating obstruction of justice – so much for the independent prosecutor’s office obeying the law – leaks
Obstruction of justice game – run on me – what you do to try to frame someone who is innocent – create a process violation regarding an issue where they are innocent. When the first frame failed, falsified and obstruction of justice charge. We caught them falsifying evidence. Multiple lawsuits designed to create imperfection in subpoena compliance.

What came out on Comey – special prosecutor should not exist trick to create him. Suggestion that he should be fired is a good one. I appreciate the politics of why Trump may not fire him. However, he should be fired and it is an enormous black mark on Sessions record that he permitted this to happen.

Two problems. If the 1% want to bulls**t each other, then let them do it with their own money. This is all using taxpayers money while people go hungry and homeless

Recent article

In the meantime, the US inability to adapt to the age of consequence is to behave in a manner that will destroy its global brand.

The ramifications and costs of the meltdown of US leadership and the attention seeking of the media shriek-o-meter is unnecessarily destroying the future of the US reputation and diminishing our role in the international order. It is a big brand, so it will take a while. It is frightening to watch it.

QUESTION

Never have I seen so many crash predictions from so many different market people,
It's just insane. and it seems that an awful lot of economic indicators are falling like a stone, for instance the auto sales. Where do you see things headed?

ANSWER:

Trump trade over – Washington witchhunt stopping all major policies – tax reform, health care reform,

Summer correction likely, not crash. The rising voices include many who can make money on a pump and dump or chasing people into stupid places. Chances of turning into a bear are small - I give it maybe 10-20% - which could happen via political fighting, dirty tricks.

Major correction (15-25% down) 50

Minor correction (10-15% down) 35

Crash - 10

Trades Flat – 15

2018 much greater chances of real problems.

This is why I wanted so much in hedged equity. Too much uncertainty to be fully risk on or long.

Let's Go to the Movies

2 Weeks from now when we interview Bill Binney. NOW AVAILABLE ON VIMEO A Good American; The Maze from Frederich Moser

In Let's Go to the Movies, I will discuss The Circle which was just recommended by our cultural scout in our new “Food for Your Soul” column.

[CAF Note: A big shout out for our new correspondent writing under the handle “Your Culture Scout.” They are my best source for great movies, art and music and will be posting great tips in a column called “Food for the Soul” twice a month.]

“Knowing is good. But knowing everything is better.”
~The Circle's CEO played by Tom Hanks

By: Your Culture Scout

If you have ever been exasperated by the younger generation's inability to consider social media as a threat to privacy and personal freedom, this is a perfect movie to share with your teenage kids or grandkids. It's a tale of a corporation called The Circle that amassed millions of subscribers whose social, medical and financial profiles provide a literal mine of big data. The movie features very likable stars -Tom Hanks and Emma Watson (Hermione from "Harry Potter" movies) who bring some glamour and good acting to the story that The Guardian calls "a convincing snapshot of the digital age we're now surfing."

Watson portrays a twenty-something Mae- a girl from a middle class family who scores big by getting her dream job at a social media giant. Think Amazon, Facebook and Twitter rolled into one with a culture-style of Apple (and based in the San Francisco area so you get gorgeous views of the Golden Gate Bridge as a bonus). Mae soon discovers that the company watches, follows and uploads every moment of their employees lives. It's actually not a bad thing from her point of view since she gets an emergency help thanks to the the watchful cameras of The Circle. Seduced by the grand vision of the Jobs-style CEO (Tom Hanks), Mae agrees to be filmed 24/7 (minus a few bathroom breaks) and becomes the best spokesperson for the philosophy of zero privacy in the name of a perfect customer service, an early health intervention and crime prevention. We do not have to wait long for the Big Brother to cause embarrassment and the ultimate tragedy in the lives of our protagonists. The Circle we see onscreen is a classic tech corporation, populated by young people without any obligations and no hostages- no kids, no mortgages, no sickness, no infidelities. Easy to manipulate, happy to take risks, not too concerned about privacy as they have accumulated very little skeletons in their closets. Ideal employees who easily embrace the ideology of getting rid of any privacy in the name of better service and relationships. “Sharing is caring” they chant at a town hall meeting.

The storytelling is slightly flawed here but the main reason we chose to recommend it is that it does what movies do so presciently and so enjoyably. Filmmakers are very good at showing us the near future in a ... well.... cinematic, way. In Minority Report Tom Cruise enters a clothing store where he is greeted by name via big screens projecting his face. These days RFID chips in new clothing can track any purchase and probably any purchaser but at the time this was a new concept illustrated so well by a movie scene. Have you seen Helen Mirren in Eye in the Sky tracking an Islamic terrorist through a drone that looked like an insect? So many movies illustrate a reality that is just round the corner. The Circle is the newest one on that list. It’s fun to watch an exaggerated vision of everything we already have in some form: literally everyone walks around glued to their cell phones, tiny devices record every corner of the globe and social media is used to steer all social and financial behavior (Google Analytics, flash crowds- you know how this works in reality....).

The story pushes to the limit the idea of big data collection, the totalitarian lack of privacy achieved thanks to genius algorithms or even the idea of forcing every citizen to vote via a social media account. There is even a more general comment on the grand transformation the whole planet is undergoing due to the digital flow of information. In the end though, it’s just an entertaining movie you can use to say something cautionary to the young ones in the family.

By Catherine Austin Fitts

The Saker joins me this Thursday for our quarterly Solari Report on the emerging multipolar world.

The intensity of multiple events impacting global security continues to rise. This report is a longer-than-usual, in-depth discussion of the unraveling of the unipolar world and of the drumbeats of war.

Topics include:

- Events in Syria and Middle East, including the Trump’s meetings and the Saudi alliance actions against Qatar;
- The French elections;
- President Trump’s unusual behavior at the G-7 meeting and the Vatican;
- Response to the cancellation of the Paris Accord;
- Developments in North Korea;
- Duterte and the Philippines;
- The politics of recent terrorist attacks throughout the world;

- The evolution of US foreign policy and related military deployment.

I asked the question in the 1st Quarter Wrap Up, “Can a new US administration maintain a prosperous economy without more debt, crime and war?” Events since that time indicate that the entire world is struggling with this question as so many nations seek security and private interests seek profit in a manner that diminishes global security. For some, insecurity is great for power and profit as the global economy slows and productivity stalls.

It is always a pleasure to have a professional military and intelligence analyst like the Saker join me on the Solari Report. This report is especially insightful.

I will cover current geopolitical and market events in Money & Markets. Keep the questions coming for Ask Catherine by e-mail or post in the subscriber comment section on the website.

Bitcoin wallet COINBASE now seizing accounts of Americans... users rage against “total ripoff” as their Coinbase accounts VANISH – NaturalNews.com

<http://www.naturalnews.com/2017-06-13-bitcoin-wallet-coinbase-now-seizing-accounts-of-americans-total-riporff-accounts-vanish.html> Like you said, if I may paraphrase: don't trust it. I am glad I have decided to go the physical rout.

Catherine, I recently subscribed to Solari after many years of reading your articles. I am a great fan of you and what you are doing. I have a couple of questions about things you said in your December 10, 2016 interview with Jon Rappoport. First, I am not clear on what the network means when you talk about return to the network. I understand return to investors, return to taxpayers, and return to the economy. You talk about network as everyone else, but that would seem to be the same as return to the economy. So, I'd appreciate it if you could clarify the distinction between return to the economy and return to the network. Second, I am very interested in your comments that America would have 100 times as much wealth if government only invested in things that have positive returns to all four groups. You said that Goldman Sachs and Warren Buffett understand this. I would appreciate some additional comments on how you know that they understand this, and what they are doing about it. Thank you

When first developed the Solari Model – return to investor and return to network.

Buffet – investments in operating companies and investments in bond portfolios and insurance

Goldman – network related to Hamilton, analytics, money management and depth in place based through municipal and mortgage markets – investment from Buffet.

Both - accumulation of real estate in anticipation of lower energy costs and new technology.

QUESTION RE SANDERS INSTITUTE

Hi Catherine:

I had lunch with you in Pasadena last month. I hope you will arrange this again when you travel to southern Cal. It was a wonderful experience that I reflect on often!!

Have you ever considered doing an interview regarding cannabis and the legalization that is happening across the country? I have worked in agriculture most of my adult life, avocados and citrus. I live in Ventura County, one of California's amazing Ag areas. There are many things happening on the legal and medical sides of cannabis. It will be a giant industry and has the possibility of employing a lot of people, stepping us away from icky pharma, and emptying our prisons of small drug offenders. So, if you have the inclination, please consider an interview on this subject.

One of my huge concerns with legalization is the generation SO much in new tax money that there suddenly is another large pot of $$ from which to be stolen by those nefarious ones. We all know who they are....from sea to shining sea, right?

Thank you Catherine. You are a true gem and inspiration. I love you and your work.
